

Welcome to Luker Chocolate

Probably you have heard about Casa Luker at shows, by our business executives, by references, chefs, magazines and social media. As a company, we have been in the chocolate industry for over 110 years. However, we have been in the international market for only ten years. Although it seems little, this time has been more than enough to allow us to learn from the world.

Being in the international market has taught us how vital our chocolate is for the world; why our single-origin chocolates make us different; the importance of building great relationships with our customers and suppliers, and why our dream of making the world a better place matches with the vision of many.

Now it's time to re-introduce us as LUKER CHOCOLATE. We want you to recognize us easily without language barriers and understand our way of working. We want to be close to you, and we want to help other companies create purpose-driven products, using our chocolate as a tool for change. We want you to know our history, to read what happens behind the production of our chocolate and to familiarize yourself with our brand. Finally, but not least, we want to work and grow hand in hand with you.

If you are reading this is because you probably will be at the International Baking Industry Exposition (IBIE). Therefore, we want you to join us in our booth #1469 to know more about us. Come and taste our Fino de Aroma Chocolates and discover how our chocolate can help you to achieve your next goal.

Please feel free to navigate our website www.lukerchocolate.com, follow us on LinkedIn, Facebook and Instagram and last but not least read our blog Under The Tree and become part of our Luker Chocolate community.
